Bog River Falls - Tupper Lake, NY

Bog River Falls

Bog River Falls is a scenic, two-tiered waterfall on Tupper Lake tributary, the Bog River. The stone bridge that spans the river also makes for a picturesque view.

The first set of falls is split in two by a formation of land. These 6-8-foot falls are rounded and smooth, and flow into a small holding area for the river before flowing out and over the second set of falls. These falls are said to measure approximately 30-feet in height and are more rocky and tumultuous as the water races over.
